WE NOMINATE

Oral Miller, 19-year old resident of Ashland, Kentucky, in whose achievements more and more Princetonians are taking increasing pride as still another academic year draws to its commencement-dotted close. Entering Princeton University last September, this 6-4 valedictorian of his high school class has proved himself an honor student, has won recognition in two branches of athletics, has demonstrated infinite capacity for community living—and all this in spite of the fact that he has been blind for the past ten years.

While a number of blind athletes have been successful in individual sports, there appears to be no record anywhere of a blind person having mastered a team sport in the company of more fortunate, seeing athletes. Handicapped by a fractured ankle, sustained in wrestling, Miller reported late for a new sport, rowing, but by late April was pulling an oar in the second freshman crew. This week he jumped up still another notch and on June 21st may well be wearing Princeton's colors in the 50th Annual Regatta sponsored by the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

Miller lost the sight of his left eye in the third grade when a sliver of glass from a light bulb sliced into the cornea. Six months later the world began fading out altogether and he entered the Kentucky School for the Blind to start his education all over again. In his last two years of secondary school he simultaneously attended Louisville's Male High School, where he captained the wrestlers and served as sports editor of the school paper and also maintained a 96-plus average in his studies.

Now hoping to find some summer employment that will enable him to stretch a limited budget even farther, Miller combines a variety of methods in studying Spanish, English, Economics, History and Music. Some recordings are available through the Library of Congress, others are made expressly for him by a group of volunteers in Tennessee. Paid student-readers, most of whom are enrolled in his courses, help with mounds of unrecorded material and he takes lecture-notes in Braille. His most wonderful asset is a retentive memory that clings to the most obscure details long after they have been forgotten by others.

For minimizing the handicap of blindness and insisting that "otherwise I am like any other student"; for inspiring in others the conviction that "we know there's nothing he can't do, even to riding a bicycle out to the Graduate College and back;" for asking others to do nothing Oral Miller himself wouldn't undertake; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for Numbers Juggled. Distribution of the new Mercer County telephone directories (which contain some 82,750 listings, up 10% over last year) is expected to be completed by this weekend. When it is, the telephone company hopes calls will be made to the new numbers listed. For example, 275-J should be requested as "Princeton 1-0275-J." All numbers have been given the prefix "PRinceton 1-" and where less than four digits existed, zeros have been added.

Major victim of this seeming complexity (which is gauged to introduce dial phones some time hence) is Cousins Company. When he established his store here 15 years ago, Bayard Stockton got the easiest number to remember in the book. Mrs. Agnes Pyne McLean (an original major stockholder and a cousin—hence the name), had her number, 1, transferred to the company when she moved away from Princeton. Under the new system, Cousins gets a near tongue-twister: 1-0001.

But while the telephone company asks that the new numbers be used, it won't by any means refuse to put through calls when the present numbers are given. A major change of this nature requires time to take effect: subscribers' memories and habits can't be changed overnight, nor can business firms' stationery and billheads be discarded simply because the numbers are no longer technically correct. J. W. Miller's Sons, for example, already has a substantial supply of 1953 calendars for distribution—ordered and printed before the change had been announced.

The full effect of the transition will not be felt until dial telephones are installed in Princeton. When that occurs, the full five digits will have to be used, but before that, an extension must be added to the service building at 201 Nassau Street and much scarce equipment obtained. Earliest guess: 1954.

Speed Control Starts. Radar speed control, announced for the community last winter but delayed by lack of certain electronic equipment, is now in effect on borough streets. Signs proclaiming its presence have been erected at the dozen-odd entrances to town.

Police have already conducted tests on principal thoroughfares, and next week will begin handing out warnings to violators. Within a fortnight thereafter, summons to the magistrate's court will follow. First results of the unseen check on motorists' speed were reported by police as "surprisingly satisfactory."

New Medical Building. Immediate construction is planned of a $270,000 Medical Arts Building on the northwest corner of the Princeton Hospital grounds. It will house physicians' offices and allied medical facilities, and is dedicated, the hospital's trustees report, "to making better and more economical medical care available to the Princeton area."

A two-story L-shaped structure, one wing of the building will parallel Witherspoon Street, the other, the borough-township line. Space has been offered to all doctors associated with the hospital, and to date more than a dozen have signed five-year leases.

Some 14,000 square feet of space will be provided, with provision made for a future extension when needed. Space for parking 122 cars (more than can be accommodated in the borough's Chambers Street lot) will be among the auxiliary facilities.

Tentative plans for such a building have been under consideration by the hospital for more than a decade. Today's blueprints have been approved by the borough zoning board, mayor and council and township committee. Concrete-block masonry, faced with red colonial brick to harmonize with the main hospital building, will be used. John McShain, Inc. of Trenton, low bidder, has been awarded the contract.

To be amortized on a 20-to-25 year basis, the building will largely be financed by a group of New Jersey banks (among them, the Princeton Bank and Trust Company), while a portion of the hospital's endowment fund will be invested in the project. A higher rate of return for its capital holdings is expected from such a move.

Hospital Administrator John W. Kauffman pointed out that "arrangements for physicians' offices connected with hospitals are not established to reduce operating expenses for doctors. Rather, they are provided as an aid to the distribution of better and more economical medical care to the public." Among the long-range benefits is progress toward the development of the long-sought consolidated health district, with a completely equipped hospital the center of all community health services, both public and private.

Parade Set. Princeton's Memorial Day Parade, an annual affair here for nearly two decades, will be held Friday at 11. Services at St. Paul's and Princeton Cemeteries, starting at 9, will precede the march up Nassau Street from Princeton Avenue to the Battle Monument.

A military field mass, with music by the children's choir, will be celebrated at St. Paul's by the Rev. Edward C. Henry. Rabbi Saul Loeb will give the invocation at Princeton Cemetery, with the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson making a brief address and the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker pronouncing the benediction. The color guard, bugler and firing squad of Princeton Post No. 76, parade sponsor, will partake in both services.

Music for the parade will be provided by the Jersey City Drum and Bugle Corps, the Princeton High School Band, and the 40-piece 9th Infantry Division Band from Fort Dix. For the first time, flags of the 48 states and six territories will be carried by Legion members, lending unusual color to the occasion. Services, civic, patriotic and mili-

It's New to Us

Not If You're Sentimental. Somebody has rescued the congratulatory message and gotten it away from the lavender-and-old-hokum boys. This is good news because, what with weddings and graduations, late spring is Greeting Card Season. But we warn you not to buy a single greeting card until you examine the collection by Inkweed at Stonewald's (formerly Zavelle's) 13 Palmer Square West. We don't know who drew and designed Inkweed cards and Stonewald's doesn't know either, but he's a guy we'd like to meet, whoever he is.

He has executed brash, bold cards in India ink on stark white. His message may be only "You Win," below a sketch of a hairy pugilist. The drawing may be a black ink montage of cap and gown, scholar's specs, and book with note: "We knew you could do it." Or it may be a man with a padlocked strongbox for a head. He gets this: "You have a closed mind."

A lovely nightmare shows a man climbing an endless ladder to the moon. Cryptic caption: "Sorry, it's impossible." An anniversary card turns out to be a scraggly drawing of a battered husband and wife who have obviously been slugging it out for some time.

Yes, Inkweed cards can be used for any occasion. We mentioned weddings, but come to think of it . . . the inside of the fold is blank; you write your own ticket once you're inside.

Now for size. Most are six by nine inches, no less, and one of an elongated stork is five by twelve. (Wait'll the post office gets batches of these!) And prices are good: 25 cents to 50 cents.

Rain Stopped Yet? At Harris', 32 Witherspoon, they're putting a cautious toe into the water. Their bathing suits are unbelievably stylish and well-made for the price range. A two-piece plisse is only $1.95, and the top limit is only $7.95, for a fitted one-piece strapless lastex.

With your suit, a beach bag that almost matches. Shirred flowered plastic for $2.95 looks big enough to hold a robe and suit. The suit we're thinking of is also shirred and flowered—but not plastic. Other beach bags are only $1, please, for a rough-textured plastic with a zipper. How about getting one for your sprout to take to camp? The price tag means you won't scold when, inevitably, the bag gets lost.

But a raincoat seems more newsworthy at the moment than a bathing suit. Harris' has a row of double-duty rain-shiners, visored cap to match. One coat is almost like rayon shantung, falling full from the shoulders with raglan sleeves and no buttons. In navy or red, quite dressed-up.

Other water-repellents (and doesn't Princeton need one!) are like tweed, in soft chartreuse, pale violet or black and white semi-checks. Each style is $19.95, which isn't bad when you consider that you get two coats and a hat.

We haven't seen any summer skirts like the cotton broadcloth at Harris'. These are semi-tailored, and they button down the front with unpressed pleats flanking the buttons. The colors—hunter, navy, black, copper or coral—give them a long life. You can wear them in cool spring weather, all summer, and well into fall without looking like a faded zinnia. Besides, only $3.95.

tary groups will be in the line of march, with Col. Donald W. Griffin acting as parade marshal. Veterans of the Spanish-American War, two World Wars and the war in Korea will be in the parade. The speaker at the Battle Monument will be Dr. Howard A. Rusk, an associate editor of The New York Times.

Commencement Plans. Three Princeton educational institutions have announced plans for their annual commencement exercises.

The Hun School will award prizes and diplomas this Friday morning at 11 at Edgerstoune. The speaker will be Dr. John F. Sly, Director of Princeton Surveys. Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, the headmaster, and Thomas B. Hartmann, assistant headmaster, will also be heard briefly; Minot C. Morgan, Jr., a trustee of the school, will present diplomas to the class of 1952.

Among its members are Ronald H. Baker, Ridgeview Road; Michael F. Carnevale, 103 Linden Lane; Stephen A. Denman, Province Line Road; Warren W. Foster, Prospect Avenue Extension; Myron E. LaVake, 3d, Ewing Road; Girard L. Poirier, R.D. 1; and LeRoy E. Warren, 2d, Lovers Lane.

Westminster Choir College will hold its 23d annual exercises Saturday morning at 11 in the University Chapel, giving degrees to 101 graduates. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, well-known Christian leader, will give the principal address.

The Talbott Festival will be concluded this Friday with an evening concert in McCarter Theatre and the Festival of Massed Choirs in the afternoon. The latter event, in which some 2,000 singers from choirs as far north as New England and south to Virginia will participate, will be held in Palmer Stadium at 3. In the event of rain, the program open to the public without charge will be transferred to the University Chapel.

Princeton Theological Seminary will begin its 140th annual commencement program with a Baccalaureate Service Sunday at 4 in

News of the Theatres

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

The 12th season of activity at the Bucks County Playhouse under the management of Theron Bamberger will open next Friday, June 6. The New Hope theatre will present Kitty Carlisle in "Lady in the Dark," with performances to be given through June 21, including Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

A tuneful musical with songs by Kurt Weill and Ira Gershwin, the play traces in light-hearted fashion the problems of a fashionable career woman who learns that success is not always accompanied by a happy romance. When a psychoanalyst interprets her dreams, her problems gradually melt away and her romances with three attractive men are disentangled in a series of diverting scenes.

THE McCARTER

While it must be admitted that a converted skeptic makes the loudest noise in falling, this department was frankly entranced with what transpired in the McCarter Friday night when the Junior Community Players and the Audree Estey ballet groups staged "The Sleeping Beauty." It wasn't lack of belief that the performance would be essentially acceptable; rather, it was total lack of preparation for the charm and the delightful aura of make-believe that blanketed the stage throughout the evening.

The spontaneous enthusiasm of the scores of children involved in both the play proper and the ballet scenes had much to do with the evening's pleasure. Self-consciousness never existed; every participant seemed to exude either quiet confidence or, in the case of the innumerable smaller fry, a devastating air of complete nonchalance.

But welding the entire production together was the direction achieved by Nancy Haight, aided by the onstage performances of the older members of the cast and the undoubtedly endless efforts of those who assembled all aspects of the production, from costumes and make-up to assurance that every last Crocus, Raindrop and Robin was properly cued. In an atmosphere all its own, it was a major dramatic success.

THE PLAYHOUSE

About Face (Thurs-Sat.), a musical with a military school setting, concerns itself with the efforts of three cadets to see as much of three young ladies as possible

Miller Chapel. Dr. John A. Mackay will deliver the address.

Class and club reunions and the annual meeting of the alumni association are scheduled for Monday. This will be a dinner meeting in Whitely Gymnasium.

Graduation exercises will take place Tuesday morning at 10.30 in the University Chapel. Dr. John S. Whale, Visiting Professor of Christian Theology at Drew University, will deliver the address on the occasion, speaking on "The Gospel in Our World."

Well Done. Two Princetonians (see pictures, page 5) made news this week with announcements of their impending retirements.

One was Professor Walter P. ("Buzzer" — because of his hearing aid) Hall, long a favorite lecturer and preceptor in the University's Department of History. Hundreds of undergraduates crowded into Alexander Hall for his final lecture last week; part of the University Band was there, and Prof. Hall received a seven-foot testimonial scroll.

The scroll bears the names of 450 donors to the Walter Hall Fund, which will insure against last week's lecture actually being his final one. Part of the fund will be used to endow a lectureship in history to be given to undergraduates, and hopes are that Professor Hall will be the lecturer for some years to come.

James H. Wheeler, known as "Hank" Wheeler for the 36 years of his employment in the Princeton Post Office, will retire at the end of next month. For the past quarter century, he has served as a mail carrier, covering many routes but of late handling a sizeable portion of the western section of town.

Mr. Wheeler, who has seen the number of postal employees here increase from 14 to 64, and who began work when the late William Cottrell was postmaster, will be honored Thursday afternoon at an outing at the police pistol range on Washington Road. A cigarette lighter will be given him as a memento of the occasion.

At six to seven miles a day, five days a week, 50 weeks in the year for 25 years, Mr. Wheeler has become thoroughly adept at putting one foot in front of the other. Approximate total mileage: 37,500—some one and a-half times around the world.

Hat in the Ring. Eleven years ago this spring, Malcolm S. Forbes was a member of the graduating class of 1941 when it received its diplomas in front of Nassau Hall. Following Army service in Europe and a journalistic career (he's now associate publisher of the family-operated Forbes Magazine of Business), he turned to politics.

Last fall, he upset a tradition-bound Republican organization in near-by Somerset County, conducting a vigorous door-bell ringing campaign that catapulted him into the State Senate at age 32. Last week, he announced his candidacy for the governorship of New Jersey, a race that will not break into the open until well after this year's Presidential election but is expected to draw as many as half a dozen candidates for the 1953 balloting.

Summer School to Open. The summer school that has operated here each year for the past four under the direction of Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, now headmaster at Hun, will be directed this year by high school principal Harold A. Odell. A six-week session will open June 30, with all classes held at the high school through the approval of the board of education.

For the first time, individual and ensemble instruction in music will be provided, with other classes in vocal instruction open to pre-high school students. Thomas Hilbish and Sylvan Friedman will be in charge.

Courses will also be offered in English, science, languages, and mathematics at the high school level; in remedial reading and basic arithmetic for grades five through eight; and typing and shorthand for beginners. The latter carry no academic credit. Full details may be obtained from Mr. Odell by letter or by telephoning 1450 from 9 to 3.

and the various plans they hatch to achieve their aims. The resultant story and comedy are distinctly uneven; somewhat more is to be said for the film's song and dance routines. With Gordon MacRae, Eddie Bracken, Phyllis Kirk, Virginia Gibson.

The San Francisco Story (Sun.-Tues.) spins a tale of the early days of the Golden Gate City, a century ago. Joel McRea is out to end the reign of lawlessness and sin greedily guided by Sidney Blackmer. The latter is the black-hearted villian of the piece, while Yvonne de Carlo provides the romantic note (which starts, oddly enough, when she horsewhips Reformer McRea.) An adventure story that is gaudy but not always particularly good.

Skirts Ahoy (Wed.-Sat.) is Esther Williams' latest musical, which means it is a languidly-paced picture that devotes a fair share of its time to letting Miss Williams give swimming exhibitions. The story traces the romantic desires of three WAVES (Joan Evans and Vivian Blaine are the other two), and leans heavily on the ability of numerous guest artists; Billy Eckstine, Debbie Reynolds, Bobby Van, Keenan Wynn and others.

THE GARDEN

Macao (Thurs.-Sat.) is a typical but entertainingly told adventure piece, set on a Portugese island off the coast of Hong Kong, where gambling, romance and murder are virtually 24-hour pastimes. Robert Mitchum, Jane Russell and William Bendix are a cut or two below the sensational in their acting ability but there is sufficient drama and occasional humor to carry the film along in enjoyable fashion.

Tomorrow Is Too Late (Mon.-Thurs.), an Italian import, has been very well received as a direct but unsensational approach to the need for sex education of adolescents. Given a setting of a provincial school, the story unfolds the problems that occur through mistakes made by unintelligent parents and prudish teachers. Nicely handled throughout.

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

Sizzling Southpaw. Attendance at Princeton baseball games this season has not been particularly high, what with other weekend attractions and a team that did not measure up to expectations. When light showers began to fall last Saturday a few minutes before gametime, it held the attendance down to some 200 faithful. But shortly after 4:30, having sat uncomplainingly through a steady drizzle, they had been rewarded with a look at baseball's crown jewel—a no-hit game.

Harry Brightman, poker-faced southpaw, threw it at Fordham, a 5-0 victory that was a masterpiece all the way. It was the first such performance on University Field since George Lauritzen blanked Lehigh, 9-0, on April 23, 1935; Rudy Clemen had a seven-inning no-hitter to his credit seven or eight years ago.

NO RUNS, NO HITS . . .

Harry Brightman

There was icing on the cake, too. For eight innings, the 21-year-old senior hadn't allowed a ball to be hit out of the infield. His speed was so overpowering that a lineup of nine right-handed batters (supplemented by two more right-handed pinch-hitters) gave second baseman Hubey Kreitler a dozen chances during the afternoon.

Frank Minnick, leadoff man in the ninth, hit to deep right, the ball going some 340 feet and almost reaching the fence. Just as it started to drop, Jack Blessing caught up with it at full speed.

Princeton hopped on Sal Chiaramonte visitors' ace, for all its runs in the fourth after two were out. Dick Savage was on first through a fielder's choice when Bill Tryon and Bill Gall walked. Blessing's single over second scored Savage, and Tryon came in when the Fordham shortstop stood and watched him round third and then threw late to the plate.

Singles by Ed Simpson and Joe Golden chased three more across and from there on all the interest centered around Brightman. Save for the long blast that Blessing nailed, the Tiger hurler was never in trouble. He walked four but fanned eight, and in the fourth retired the side on just four pitches. Stimpson, Golden and Kreitler made 26 putouts among the three of them, the other, of course, going to Blessing.

Rutgers will be here Saturday at 2:30 in the Tigers' last home appearance before the Yale game on June 14. Captain Ray Chirurgi may be the pitching selection, getting a chance to turn back the Scarlet in return for the 5-1 beating he took at New Brunswick on April 30.

Victory in its last three encounters will give the team a chance to finish above .500 with a 12-10 mark, a worthwhile achievement in view of the 2-7 record that it held at one time this spring. As for next year, it may be that the freshmen can provide definite help, for their 9-2 record is the best one of Matt Davidson's teams has compiled in three seasons.

Softball Standings. The Cenerinos and the Nassau Johnnies each won their first three games in the American League, and at the end of last week were tied in the softball standings. The Cenerinos trounced University Laundry & Cleaners, 18-3, while the Nassau Johnnies took the Phantoms, 9-5. In the week's other contest, Oldis Movers trimmed the Sportsmen's Club, 13-4.

A triple tie for third place existed among Oldis Movers, the Phantoms and the Sportsmen's Club, each of which had won one and lost two. University Laundry was last with a 3-0 mark.

R.C.A., which defeated ETS 2 by an 11-5 count, was the top team in the National League, having won its first two starts. ETS 1, Nassau Social Club and Heyden Chemical followed, with 1-0 records.

Jugtown, AVC and ORG have and then won its 34th straight over four seasons by topping the West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills, 7-2. Dick Swinnerton's freshmen finished 8-0 to give assurance of further domination in this sport by Princeton.

Pennsylvania's track team was bowled over in Palmer Stadium, 96-44, for the Tigers' seventh victory in eight dual meets and best season since 1938. A dozen of the 16 first places came Princeton's way in the one-sided contest.

Some of the performances indicate that Matty Geis can look forward to the strongest Princeton showing since the 'thirties in the IC4-A's this weekend ot Randall's Island, N. Y. Tobey Maxwell's 4:14.9 mile was the top effort of his career, and Al Rauch's 1:53.2 half matches the best of the current season for all college runners.

Buzz Taylor ranks well up among the broad jumpers and has already beaten the defending IC4-A champion, Meredith Gourdine, in the Cornell meet this season. Al Pittis is a threat in the two-mile.

Coach Irwin Weiss of Princeton High School's all-conquering track team will take his athletes to Asbury Park Saturday to defend their Central Jersey Group III title. Stiffest opposition from the 10 or 12 schools entered is expected to come from Long Branch and North Plainfield, but the Little Tigers already hold a one-sided triumph over the first-named team.

Co-captain Buster Thomas is bothered by a knee injury, and may have to forego both the broad and high jumps. Bob Taylor and Al Terry, leading sprinters, have been bothered with pulled muscles. Otherwise, the team is in top shape and Weiss feels will be able to retain its title. Tom Perks, figured to place in the shot, discus and javelin, heads a strong Blue and White delegation in the field events.

Princeton High School's baseball team beat Hightstown, 14-5, last week, before losing an extra-inning tilt to North Plainfield. Bob Stewart was the winner over Hightstown; a seventh inning scoring spree in which eight runs crossed the plate won for the Little Tigers Bud Bosley's two doubles paced the attack.

Three runs in the seventh tied the score against North Plainfield last Friday but the visitors pushed one across in the top of the eighth to take home a 5-4 triumph. Cal Buddemann tripled with the bases loaded in the seventh make it 4-all before another three-bagger and a fielder's choice won for North Plainfield.

Hun School finished a highly successful baseball season last week by defeating Peddie, 15-4. Jack Liska won his fifth of the campaign, going the distance with ease as the Red and Black finished with a 10-4 mark for the year.

The Hun crew will enter the national schoolboy regatta Saturday. It will take place on the Potomac River near Washington.

George Hackl of 251 Bayard Lane entered the British Amateur Golf Tournament in Scotland this week. Drawing a first-round bye, he won his way into the third round when he took the 19th hole from Tom Reedy of England, 1 up.

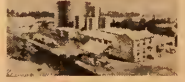
EASY BUDGET PAYMENTS



The amount of Princeton Fuel Oil you use month by month varies with the coldness of the winter. You won't use much of your yearly total in early fall and late spring, but you will in December, January, and February. As a result, your monthly fuel bills will be the highest in those winter months. If you wish, you can even out monthly payments by using our Budget Payment Plan, which spreads your annual bill evenly over each month of the heating season. There are no charges for this extra service and, in the end, you pay only for the oil you've used at the regular posted price on the day of delivery. Many of our customers prefer this way of paying.

started to drop. Jack Blessing caught up with it at full speed, made an over-the-shoulder, backhand catch and fell down on the wet grass. But he came up with the ball, preserving the no-hitter with one of the most spectacular plays seen here in a decade or more. It was a perfect touch to an unusual afternoon.

A loud foul that missed by a couple of feet gave the crowd one more tense moment before Brightman walked Don Miller. The Tigers' second double play, this one from Savage to Kreitler to Golden, then wrapped up the decision.

Unusual speed, nicely blended with a let-up pitch and a sharp curve that generally did exactly what he wanted it to, were Harry's weapons in conquering the powerful Rams. It was his second consecutive shutout (duplicating the 5-0 verdict over Manhattan) and he beat a team that was 14-4 for the season and looking for its ninth straight.

Total Pitches	116

Jugtown, AVC and ORC have each dropped one game, while ETS 2 has lost twice. Standings are those through Friday, May 23.

In the Girls League, which will play its next games this Thursday night, the six teams are evenly split. Kings Inn, the Gulf Station and Coan's Clubbers have all won twice without a defeat; Peresett Appliance, ETS and Veterans Taxi have dropped their first two starts.

Games last week saw the Gulf Station down Veterans Taxi, 7-4; Coans outslug Peresett, 21-10; and Kings Inn trounce ETS, 15-2.

Short Notes. Three Princeton teams completed highly satisfactory seasons in dual competition last week. Harry Kinnell's golfers whipped Lafayette and Temple, 9-0 and 7-0, the scores depending on whether six players were involved in both twosomes and foursomes or seven men played twosomes. Captain Bill Ragland's outfit was 9-0 for the spring in dual competition and, when its participation in the Eastern and Metropolitan Intercollegiates is counted, 29 victories against a lone loss.

John Conroy's tennis team wrapped up its third straight Eastern title by blanking Pennsylvania, 9-0,

Weary of denim? Look at Harris' butcher linen or chambray play clothes, pedal pushers, shorts, and blouses in charcoal, navy or faded blue. Incidentally, this blouse is only $1.95 but it's as long in the waist as many expensive blouses. What we mean is, it's only $1.95 but it stays tucked in.

How's Your Oven? If it's like ours—encrusted with oozings from apple pies, drippings from meat loaf awful. Well, a friend of this column told us about a new product called Duntra, designed to clean out an oven and keep it so. We looked into Duntra and found it to be everything it was said to be. You can buy it at the Food Mart, 20 Witherspoon.

Duntra comes in four-ounce (29c) or eight-ounce (49c) jars and it's about the consistency of heavy sour cream. For an oven, you use it with a damp metal sponge, then rinse it out with a cloth dampened in warm water.

For slick surfaces like tile, you use it with a clean cloth. It even cleans up the bottoms of copper pans, like Revere ware. Duntra is made in New Brunswick by the Duntra Laboratories.

For the Chip Off the Block. Don't you feel, sometimes, that you'd like to see your son in something besides a round-neck T-shirt? The Prep Shop, 12 Chambers, has a store full of sports and dress shirts for summer with neat collars. (Collars are flattering to a boyish face but for heaven's sake, don't tell your boy that.)

The one we liked best is made of fine white terry with short sleeves and a collar that buttons to the neck. Collar is outlined in blue, red or green gingham. Another shirt is made of combed cotton, red, grey or white, with a collar trimmed in plaid gingham. It's particularly handsome in the bright red or navy. No ironing here, of course. Price: $2.50 in a size range from four to 12.

If you want a polo shirt, you'll like the polo in regular terry with a round knit neck and waistband in a green anchor pattern. It looks warm for after swimming.

Little boys' summer suits are usually an item of extravagance, not only because they cost so much, but because they are worn for such a short time. The Prep Shop has Eton suits in a new rayon fabric that looks like cotton but isn't, and is cheaper on that account.

These are cord suits in blue and white stripe, and they are only $5.95. You know how reasonable that is, if you've done any small-fry shopping lately. Sizes 4 to 6x.

Come summer, every young man in town will be wearing the Prep Shop's blue-jean shorts. Shipped from San Antonio, they have a Texas lone star on the hip pocket. Five pockets all told, even a tight change-pocket so there's no excuse for losing ice cream money. These shorts are only $1.95.

For the Old Block Himself. Just up Chambers Street, at Douglas MacDaid, 20 Nassau, there are sport shirts for poppa. One lavish one is pure silk in a sleek copper, or a paisley print that looks like tie silk. For $13.50.

But to come down to earth. A rayon that looks like linen makes a shirt very much like the little boys' collared one we described above. The collar buttons to the neck and is trimmed in contrasting band: navy on white, or white on navy. This trim is on the two patch pockets and down the front, and it looks tidy, in spite of its casual air. These shirts are $5.95, washable, and fast.

Wilder and louder—a cotton mesh in navy and white stripes, black and gold (match) and wait'll he sees this—navy and maroon. Shirt looks cool and very, very casual. A short neck opening has three buttons to close it up to the chin.
